Introductory Remarks on the Reform on the Mongolian Health Insurance

Strengthening the Capacity and Multi-Sector Collaboration to Improve Social Health Insurance in Mongolia

Axel Weber
Social Protection Specialist
Structure of the Presentation

- The Achievements
- The Challenges
- The Choices
- The Steps
- Conclusions
The Achievements
The Achievements

• Social health insurance introduced in 1993, when the country was implementing fundamental socioeconomic reform measures

• Policy objectives:
  – to mobilize additional financial resources for the health
  – To provide financial protection for the low income and vulnerable population.

• Social health insurance in Mongolia has played an important role in:
  – Ensuring continuity in financing health services
  – Providing access to health services for large parts of the population and
  – Protecting the insured from excessive financial burden and catastrophic health spending associated with ill health.
The Achievements

- Nearly Universal insurance coverage (only few countries in Asia)
- Extensive public subsidy for specific population categories
- Subsidy is gradually reduced as long as some population categories such as herdsmen have become economically self-sufficient
- A functioning administration including contribution collection
- Stable finance
The Challenges
The Challenges

- Providers and the population reacted differently
- Several amendments have been introduced into the health insurance Law to support rational behaviors
- Administrative strengthening needed
- Activities mainly operational and focused on fund management issues rather than benefit assessment, member satisfaction and provision of quality of health care.
- No coordination of budget and health insurance policy in financing the health care system.
- Capacities in some areas still limited
- Strategic goal and role have not yet been fully established
The Challenges

- A lack of coordination and collaboration among key stakeholders
- Coordination of health and public sector management laws and regulations created barriers
- Result was:
  - Decreasing coverage of social health insurance
  - Inadequately defined health insurance services
  - Unmet needs and expectations of the insured regarding quality of health insurance services.
  - Lacks in coordination of financing and operation
- At the same time increasing reserve funds.
The Choices
The Choices

• To increase the independence of the social Health Insurance Department of SSIGO, in order to strengthen the capacity as “purchaser”

• This creates needs in terms of supervision, capacity and “purchasing mechanisms – provider payment and “contracting”

• To create incentives to improve quality of care through appropriate provider payment mechanisms, monitoring and strengthening patient’s rights like insurance card.

• introducing an appropriate health care information system
The Steps
The Steps

- To agree on a common vision and strategic directions
- To develop an effective consensus building mechanism
- Two strategic papers on the table:
  - the health insurance development strategy developed with ADB assistance
  - the Health Sector Master Plan
- Urgent task to develop and implement these in consensus.
The Steps

• Possible concrete measures:
  – Introducing reforms like the insurance card and new purchaser models on a pilot basis.
  – To develop a data based costing framework for the actuarial calculation of provider payment mechanisms.
  – To build capacity in core courses on issues of reforming Social Health Insurance
  – Agreeing on a background paper including studies that would form the basis of the reform and draft laws as well.
  – Elaborating draft laws and regulations through a collaborative process between the concerned ministries.
  – Having an extended national dialogue process, including government ministries, trade unions, employers, expert, and other civic group hearings.
Conclusions
Conclusions

- A lot has been achieved – respect
- There are challenges
- It is possible to find solutions
- There is no lack of technical proposals
- There is some backlog in the process
- All have to get together
Thank You